Enhanced Technical Services

Members already have a free technical helpline, legal helpline, regulatory advice line; additionally there are seminars, and Members and Technical sections of Machinery Update and PPMA News. Further to this we have increased our group of technical specialists whose advice is available at no cost to the membership.

Next time you are struggling with technical, legislative or regulatory problems on topics such as Health & Safety, EU regulation or simple machinery standards, call the PPMA and resolve your problem quickly, efficiently and at absolutely no cost!

For the early stages of this new facility we ask that members contact the PPMA in the first instance:-

Business Monitor

As well as the annual PPMA Business Survey we undertake lobbying activities with the Treasury. We do this through EAMA (the Engineering and Machinery Alliance). PPMA members contribute the largest amount of data; this can be found at: www.eama.info/business-monitor.htm

Keep a look out for PPMA's email requesting this information which will take only 2 minutes to complete but will give you a month on month insight into:-

- > Order Intake
- > Enquiry Levels
- > Capital Availability
- > Investment Capacity
